Here's how it works:

Example 1: ePROTECT lifetime

Mr and Mrs Lee just had their first son, Peter (age 1). They plan to start saving for his future. With ePROTECT lifetime of sum insured of $100,000, they set aside $1,697 annually for 15 years.

Before the policy anniversary when Peter reaches age 65, he is guaranteed a death benefit of $300,000 (3 times the sum insured) in the event of death, TI or TPD. The death benefit payable is the sum insured with its attaching bonuses or $300,000, whichever is higher.

When Peter reaches age 65, he will receive a non-guaranteed lump sum retirement benefit of $136,183*, after which he will continue to be covered for $100,000 (basic sum insured) for life in the event of death, TI or TPD (before reaching age 71).

Example 2: ePROTECT lifetime, eXTRA multiplier and eXTRA secure (limited pay)

Mark (age 30, non-smoker) is looking for a plan that offers lifetime protection and retirement benefit.

With ePROTECT lifetime of sum insured of $100,000, eXTRA multiplier and eXTRA secure (limited pay) riders, he sets aside $6,259 annually for 15 years.

Before the policy anniversary when Mark reaches age 65, he is guaranteed a death benefit of $500,000 (5 times the sum insured) in the event of death, TI, TPD or diagnosis of any of the covered critical illnesses. The death benefit payable is the sum insured with its attaching bonuses or $500,000, whichever is higher.

When he reaches age 65, he will receive a non-guaranteed lump sum retirement benefit of $60,284*, after which he will continue to be covered for $100,000 (basic sum insured) for life in the event of death, TI or TPD (before reaching age 71).

* Both examples are for illustration purposes only and assumes a projected investment return of 4.75% per annum. Bonus rates are not guaranteed and will vary according to the future performance of the participating fund.

Age means the age at next birthday.
